The Chess Club this year has been a place for people to learn to play and improve playing chess. We had a ladder competition throughout the year to see who were the best players and for those players to challenge other players in other schools. The Chess Club is only a part of the games club for people to play backgammon, Dungeons and Dragons and other games. Mrs. Schumacher has made this club possible by opening up her room during lunch. Hopefully, this club will continue at Newman and Ursuling and encourage more people to play chess and other games.

Model U.N.

The Model U.N. Club is an attempt to acquaint those interested with the functions of the massive world peace organization, the United Nations.

Through the actual use of procedure involved in the passage, ammending and repealing of U.N. articles and charters', one becomes aware of intense controversial issues which make our involvement in the world all the more real and necessary.

Who Are We? Black Student Union

The BSU is a club organized for the benefit of black students at both CN and Ursuline. We are designed to be a social club that gives identity to our black students. Here we discuss problems we may face daily. We plan to hold a dance in the future year and we plan to sponsor or send money to a family in Somilia.

Try Flies

The Fly Fishing Club was formed as a result of students who wanted to persue this prestigious tradition. We are not only interested in fly-fishing, but we are concerned with the environment. This club is involved in the catch and release program and with hatcheries. We have films and speakers come help teach the new comers to the sport. Even those involved in the sport learn something new. The senior officers hope that the underclassmen carry on the new formed tradition.

Understanding Ourselves and Others

American Field Service (AFS) is dedicated to the belief that a wider awareness of the diverse cultures of this world will foster a greater appreciation of our common humanity, and hopefully, the peaceful coexistence of different people on this planet. Since 1980, when Ursuline decided to participate in this international student exchange program, exciting opportunities for learning have been made available to members of Columbia and Gina immersed herself in the lives of the people of Uruguay for a full year. Joycelyn Russo really got a glimpse of the tremendous variation in customs and attitudes when she was invited to spend the summer going to school and living with a family in Japan.

The other advantage of having an AFS chapter has been the presence of foreign students at Ursuline. Our visitor for 1981-82 was Meltem Demirer from Turkey. Perhaps she summed it up best when she said, "There's no better way to learn about your own culture and everything that you take for advantage your own culture and everything that you take for advantage at home, than to cross the ocean and to live in a totally new place."

The Drama Club ... Acting Up

I feel that being in drama has helped me quite a bit. So far this year we have done improvisation and scenes from several different plays. We did lip-synsc, comedy sketches, and had to write scenes ourselves. Being in drama has also helped me with the play because not I know more than I did last year. It's been a lot of fun. Mr. Parish is an excellent teacher.

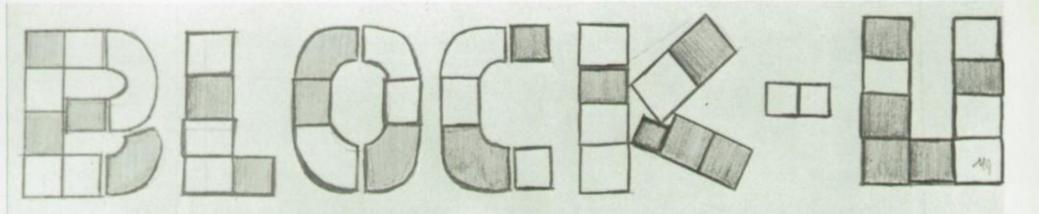

Ethan Steever

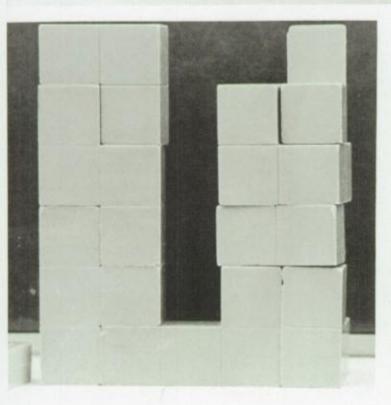

This year the Friends of Literature Club, through active campaigning and recruitment, was able to increase their membership over 30%. The club's annual outing to the Windsor Archive of Fine Literature had to be cancelled this year when the membership, too engrossed in the written word, missed the bus. More events equally as exciting are planned for the future. If you would like to join this new dimension of club fun stop by room 6 every third Saturday morning at 6 AM. Bring a book!

Friend's of Literature Club

In just two years, this club has radically upgraded Ursuline sports, making our athletes proud to wear block jackets. Thanks coach Stillman. Those who've earned their varsity block and were involved with Block U include:

Le Club Français

Being treasurer of the Club Francais means collecting dues at the beginning of each month from students who have had at least one year of French, and are entering French II, III, or IV. These dues go towards paying for a plane ticket to France, which is awarded to one lucky student at the end of each year. Members' names are put into a hat and one student name is drawn. Mrs. Bailey and club members went on a field trip, where we experienced many aspects of "Culture Francaise" food, plays, and music.

The members of ORCA (Outdoor Recreation and Conservation Activities) are outdoor enthusthiasts, pursuing diverse recreational activities, ranging from backpacking and fishing, to rock climbing and scuba diving. ORCA provides a means by which students can share their experiences with one another, meet others with similar interests, and learn more about "doing it outdoors." A unifying theme for this group is that use of natures resources implies a responsibility for them. Conservation is stressed in all activities undertaken, to ensure the opportunity for future experiences.

In Search Of ... "the Brain"

Amidst the chaotic jungle of lockers, students, and classrooms lurks the elusive homo academus, better known as "child genius", and 'the Brain". His/her glasses with lenses 20 mm thick can be seen peering from the yellowed pages of The Iliad (in Greek, of course), or a recent edition of Tolstoy's War and Peace (in Russian). The library and classroom are the Brain's natural habitats. He/ she never goes to the movies, parties, or ball games. He/she sees television as abominably boring unless an Apple II computer is attached to it.

Many people make the mistake of confusing the Brain with "normal" individuals who just set a high goal early, and have worked for it with all of their energies.

Sharing Talents . . . Liturgical Music Group

Being in the Liturgical Music group is fairly similar to being in any other club. It takes group cooperation, organization, practice and dedication. In the group, we set certain goals for ourselves, like learning certain music or words to a song. Then we work together towards that goal.

It's a lot of fun to be in the group. You meet new people who have similar talents. You also learn new songs from the group as well as contributing ones you already know. It's an experience that I hope everyone can enjoy and participate in.

With our combined efforts, we hope to stimulate enthusiasm at school liturgical celebrations.

Extra! Extra! Read All About It!

It's been a true experience having the responsibility as editor of our school paper. I was lucky to have a really good staff that was genuinely interested in putting out a paper with value. There were some rocky moments here and there, but we all ended up with great experiences that will carry on in our memories.

Thank you staff and student body.

At the beginning of the year, we decided on the theme and the format of the yearbook. We looked forward to a book that would be unique — the best book ever. It was exciting, and the ideas never stopped flowing from our brains onto Margie Brady's notebook. To learn how to do a yearbook, we all did a page of the introduction. Then we each took our own section and tried it ourselves.

From then on it was a roller coaster of emotions. Some of had help from students who volunteered so much of their time. Others sweated it alone. There were moments when we were sure it would be a failure. There were others when the original enthusiasm came back. Each deadline was torture, but we lived through them. It was a labor of love, and for better or worse, here it is. We hope you like it

1981-82 was a school year that will always be remembered for three things; Spirit, Energy, and Action. Back at the year's start last September, it was obvious that the Student Body was ready for a drastic change in the environment and

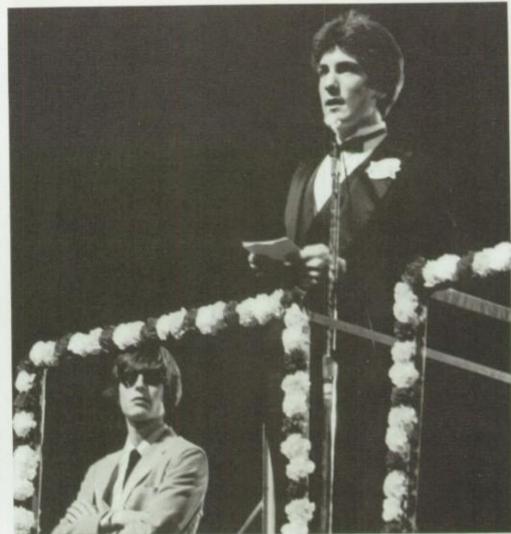

attitude of our school

Never in my four years at Cardinal Newman have I seen a group of students with such a surplus of energy, spirit, and enthusiasm as I saw in all of you this year. A great many of you were constantly willing to sacrifice your own free time and make the effort that makes things happen: the kind of attitude that gave us the most elegant Homecoming we've ever seen; a fantastic Rose City; as well as a great Prom, rallies, dances, and every other activity that happened here. You've made it a great year.

The best "advice" I could give to you underclassmen as I leave high school is this: Make the very most of your short time here. Go out there with the attitude that you can stand out in the crowd and make a difference . . . because ves you can! The Future of Cardinal Newman doesn't rest upon the Student Body President, or the principal, or the football team . . . It rests upon you. Each and every one of you have helped build Newman and Ursuline up to what they are today, and you're the ones who will determine how good your future years here will be. And pretty soon — faster than you may realize — you'll be ready to graduate and your whole life will change again . . . just as it did four years ago. I'm very grateful to have been your Student Body President and I'm fortunate enough to leave you saying I did the best I could. The job takes all the time, energy, nerves, and patience a seventeen-year-old could possibly have, and I wish the payt gave a lot of luck. It really meant a lot to me and I tried to make it wish the next guy a lot of luck. It really meant a lot to me and I tried to make it meaningful to all of you . . . Thank you again.

"... Being Student Body Secretary is a job that requires a lot of time and effort. You must have various skills; such as typing, working with machines, and taking notes quickly at meetings.

It Mas The Year of Involvement . . .

I've always been proud to be on the CN/U Swim team. I am sorry to have to leave this year as I feel I am improving under our new coach.

Swimming Diving Into A Winning Season

The Cardinal Newman/Ursuline High School Swim Team began its fourth season this year with a new coach: Mr. Don Kane. Mr. Kane replaces Mrs. Shelly Randall who had coached the team since its inception. The team is undergoing a building year and will be in top competition form by 1984. The boys team is lead by the four members of its 200 Medley relay: Ken Schmidt, Mike Loretta, Gary Miller, and Bill Pola. The girl's team, consisting mainly of freshman and sophomores is led by Jenna Johnson, Kris Loretta and Marni Shalander

Golf

If last years performance is any prelude to what Newmans golf team will do this year, we are going to see some great golf. Last years team was able to win the NBL title after playing off against Ukaih. They then went on to win the North Coast sectional Championship and moved to the state championship. In the State Tournament they finished sixth, which was a great feat.

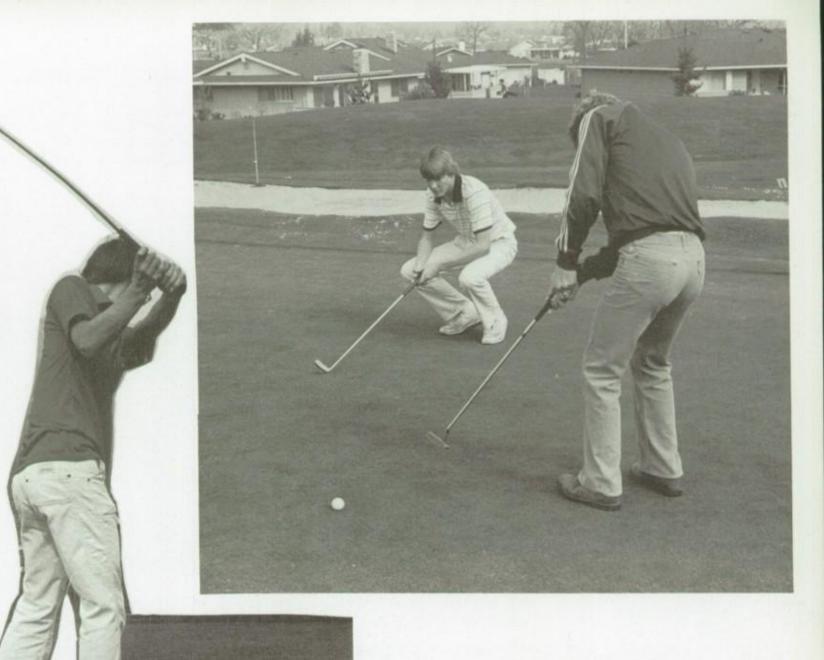

Golf is different than any other sport because you have total control over what is happening. You have time to think and plan what you are going to do: concentrating on your swing and the position you want to hit your shot to.

Being there are only seven of us on the Varsity Team, we are all really close friends. We refer to ourselves as a kind of family. We play together during the summer on a summer league team, so we are together all year round. Gary Lytle is our coach. He works really hard for us. Our whole team likes him a lot, and this really helps us.

When we are playing in a match, I know each one of us gives his all, not only for himself, but for each and every player on the team. This is what makes us good.

J.V. Softball: A Striking Season

McDonald, Inez Hernandez.
There was a large turnout for the J.V. Softball team this year. This enabled the coach, Mrs. Stambeck, to choose a first string team, as well as a second string, plus alternates. Several of the players have participated in community softball, so the skill level adds up to fantastic potential.

J.V. Baseball: Defending the League Championship

Coach LaFortune is anticipating a terrific season in '82. The J.V. Cards will be fighting to keep their title for a third year. Coach is also anticipating developing talents for Varsity potential. The team will be led by outstanding pitchers: Mark Zapelli, John Wetland, and Pete McGreenie. Great hitters include: Brian St. Martin, Scott Dickinson, and Brian Huntsinger. A tough line up!

The Ursuline Softball team is an exhilerating group. With its fourteen unique players and Fred Wright as the coach, there's never a dull moment.

The Bear's strongest point is their outstanding spirit. Their seasons of play are always tough but jokes and laughter can still be heard.

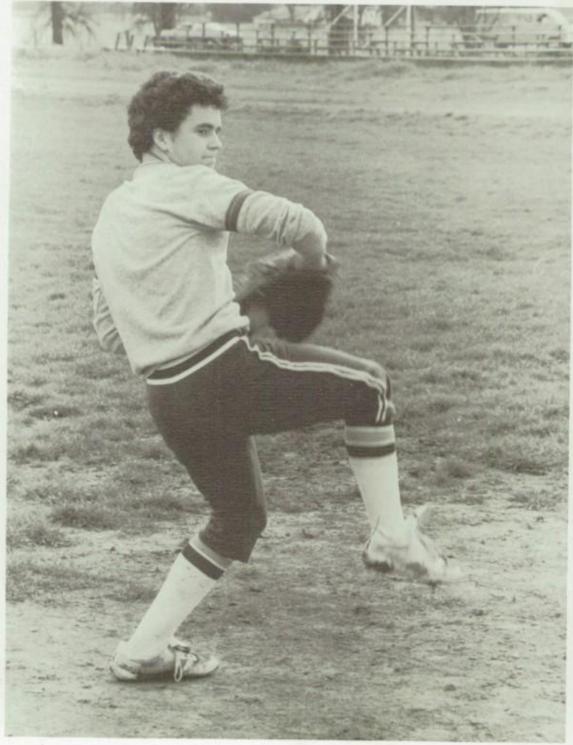

Frosh Baseball: A Winning Beginning

1982 team: Mike Berat, Tim Bugbee, Jeff Collins, Mike Devenchenz, Jeff Fassendini, Dave Halgan, Mike Healey, Daren Houseman, Tony Lombardi, Steve Nuerburg, Tony Sawyer, Ken Silva, Jeff Stambeck, Mike Vaez, Darell Vice, Russ Visoli, Cliff Whittemore.

The skills of this group of baseball players include amazing hitting, awesome infield, surprising outfield, and some fancy pitching. Under the coaching of Brian Connel, our Cards played a season they could be proud of.

Varsity Baseball: A Hit Season

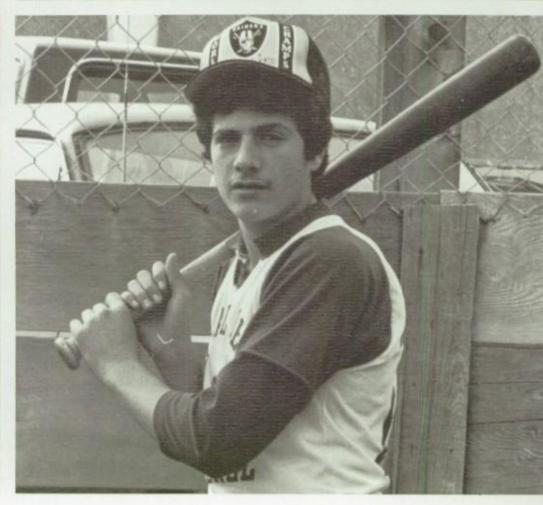

We're looking forward to big things — there's no question about it. With nine returning Seniors and last years J.V. team who had an overall score of 17 wins and 3 losses, this team should be one of the best in Newman's history. Not only are they fine players, but also dedicated and supportive of each other.

Track and Field: A Year of Great Strides

On the Track and Field team you become good friends with your teammates, because you all go through the same hard workouts together. You gain a lot of respect and pride in your teammates as you see them working hard and gaining confidence in themselves. The team gives you a lot of encouragement to help you through practice.

encouragement to help you through practice.

During the meets you are a team. The team really comes together, which is not so evident during practice, because of the seperate groups. When you're running your race, you can hear the entire team cheering you on. That's when you know you're on the track team.

The 1982 Track and Field team of Ursuline and Cardinal Newman promised to be one of the best teams ever and to be a strong contender for the NBL Rodney Scinto, Don Serva, Mike Megher, and Becky Nieto — leading the team. The coaches were excited about the potential and increasing development

Varsity Wrestling

Cardinal Newman's 1981-82 Wrestling team finished up their season with a 0-4-1 record. Aside from recognition for their crew cuts, the team was known for being both aggressive and unusually young, (many sophomores were wrestling for their second season). Coach Skov sees a lot of potential in some of the lightweight wrestlers as well.

While Newman Finished 5th in the League Tournament, Chad Dorr, Greg Bradly and Paul Garayalde each placed third in their weight class. Scott Peterson received the coaches award of Most Improved Wrestler this year, while Tom O'Reilly maintained his title of "Animal of the Year" for the second year in a row.

Frosh Basketball: Unsung Stars

This year's team got off to a fast start, winning 3 games in a row, against tough competition. Led by Mark Sion's shooting and Maurizio Colombana's rebounding, the team has steadily improved. "We look forward to a very successful year," says Coach Wellman. Good luck!!

Girls J.V. Basketball: A Winning Season

The J.V. girls basketball team showed their great talent with a 6-4 record in pre-season play. The consistant play of Tina Tabor, Bunny Lapham, Shawn Pote, Dee Dee Dolan and Mary Beth Gallagher is proving a valuable asset to the team. Coach Vic Jones predicted a repeat performance in regular season play.

J.V. Basketball Shoots the Hoop

This year's 1981-82 Junior Varsity Basketball team had a lot of talent. Junior Varsity Coach Guillen described them as a pressing and also hard working defensive team. The captains were Joe DeBenedetti and Brian St.Martin. The team was well rounded consisting of Juniors and Sophomores. They had a really good pre-season and had the talent to do well in the league. Mr. Guillen enjoys coaching and looking forward to next year's team. Congratulations to the entire lunior Varsity team. Junior Varsity team.

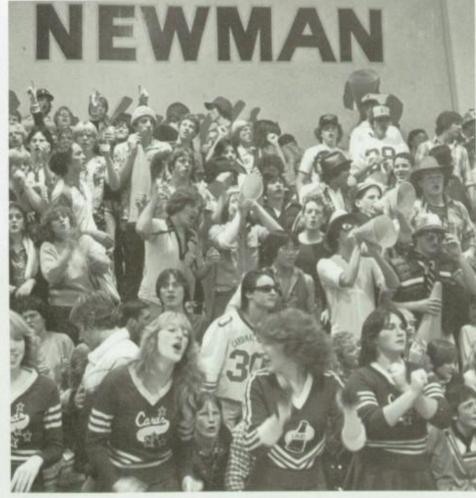

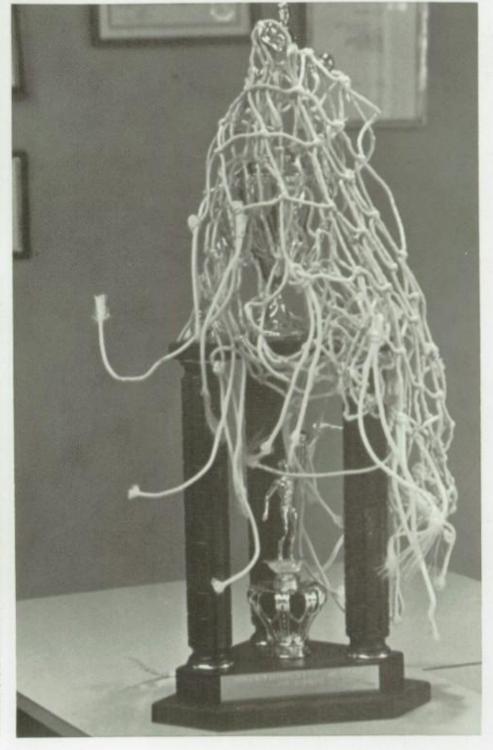

Varsity Basketball: Cardinal Cagers Confident

The 1981-82 Varsity Basketball Team was one characterized by much hard work, excellent defense and aggressive play. The key players were play making guard Bruce Belden and fine all-around player and captain, Tom Sullivan. The front line of Troy Blank, Pat Vaughan, Mike Burke and Brian Long did an excellent job on the backboards, all season long, against much taller teams. The team concept is best described by their closeness and unselfish style of play. Their exciting brand of basketball was their trademark in the North Bay League Play. Among their most noteworthy accomplishments was capturing their own Rose City Tournament Championship, with a 62-54 victory over Terra Linda.

How does it feel to play Varsity Basketball? Well, it's a great experience. You feel great walking onto the gym floor with a couple hundred people rooting you on. You get this weird feeling inside your body saying, "Right on, this is great!" It also makes you play harder knowing that there are people in the crowd yelling for you. Actually playing the game is better. You get out on the court and you feel like there's nothing holding you back; you're like a bird flying in the air. It seems like everything is frozen and the only thing moving is you. I just wish there was a way you could play and get the experiences I get playing the game. It's one of the greatest feeling I get, playing the game of basketball.

GIRLS VARSITY BASKETBALL: We're Having A Ball

The Ursuline Varsity Basketball team is outstanding. The starting line-up consists mostly of Seniors with excellent underclassman backup from the bench. So far their record shows more wins than losses. Their bright future is reflected in the teamwork and companionship each player exhibits. Under the skillful coaching of Libby Stillman the team's expected to go a long way. The team is very excited and optimistic about the upcoming season. The players believe that they will do well in the League this winter. This is the last year for the Seniors and with them go much of the real strength, but there is a good future for the rest of the team. Good luck and keep it in the air!!

Girls Tennis serves a season of victory

The Ursuline tennis team of 1981 coached by Bonnie Thomas, finished off their season undefeated 10-0 league 5-0 non-league. It was their best year ever and because of their young team, should have many more great years ahead. The Top 6 single players all went undefeated in league. The highlight of the season was their smashing defeat over Marin County's team. For the first time in the team's history, three players went to North Coast Section. Lisa Derkos represented the league in singles, while Cassie Hulen, Noelle Angel represented league in doubles. Congratulation, girls!!

The Cardinal Newman Varsity Soccer Team had fewer "stars" this year, but made up for it by being a better team. "Despite having no home field and suffering a series of serious injuries, this team never quit and was an important factor in the NBL race all season long," praised Head Coach Joel Kammer. The Sophomores and Juniors were new to the varsity team yet were an asset. We placed third in the NBL with a record of 9-7-1. We turned out four All-League players; Keenan Mikal, Kevin McBride, Tom Kielty and Mike Lipman. The Highlight of the year was a final second win over Sonoma. A congratulations to the entire team and a special thanks to Coach Kammer, Coach Gunty Coach Caroline and Managers Bill Pola and Joe Scallioni.

SUPERLATIVES: MOST VALUABLE — Mike Lipman; MOST IMPROVES — Andy Botka and Steve Coppock; MOST INSPIRATIONAL — Henry Belmonte; OUTSTANDING DEFENDER — Tom Kielty, and ROOKIE OF THE YEAR — Todd Keogh.

J.V. Volleyball

The J. V. volleyball team came a long was this year with a lot of new talent. In his first year of coaching, Coach Jerry Toves did a student. Other awards went to Carol Coleman for Coach's Award, Karrie Kenoyer for Most Valuable Player and Marci Burke for most of the players were freshmen and that this was their first year in volleyball, we did really well. The practices were really fun but we also worked hard on skills. The Most Inspirational Player Award went to Meltem Demirer, Ursuline's Turkish exchange student. Other awards went to Carol Coleman for Coach's Award, Karrie Kenoyer for Most Valuable Player and Marci Burke for Most Improved.

Cross Country Leading the Pack

Hard working and enthusiastic was Cardinal Newman/Ursuline's 81-82 cross-country teams. Led by Ryan Guilliam, John A. Hogan and Don Serva, the Boy's Varsity compiled a 4-3 record. The Girls Varsity, led by Becky Nieto, Jul Ruiz, Pam Dela Pera and Tina Indinoli, finished with a fivetwo record.

The Boy's J.V., with Dino Beltram and Kirk Buchman leading the way pulled out a 5-2 season. The Girls J.V. led by Jennifer Russo and Eva Nieto, finished with a 6-1 record.

The teams also placed well in 3 invitational meets, bringing home several ribbons and trophies.

The future looks bright for this close knit team.

Frosh Football 1981 The Unbeatable Team

The freshmen football team went undefeated this year (6-0) due to a great team effort. "They were hard workers as well as a closely knit team", said coach Bonfigili. The team shut-out opponents four times and scored 115 points.

Powder Puff Football 81-82

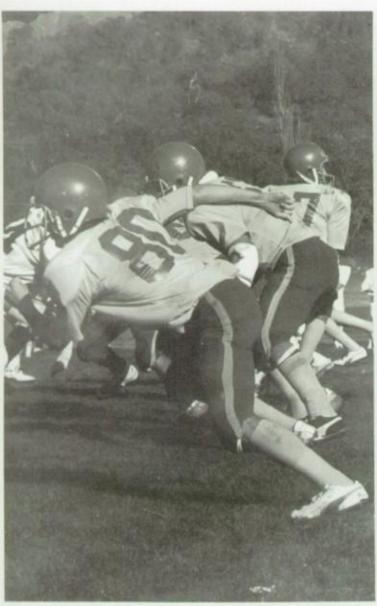

This year's Powder Puff football team had an unusual season. They won none and lost none. (They played none.) But the practices showed much potential and we are sure they will have a winning season. One of the reasons why they show so much talent is that they work as a team. They get along with each other and that is what it takes to have a good team. Good luck, Powder Puffers!

Varsity Football A Team Effort

Teamwork, sacrafice, and pride was the name of the game in 1981 as the Cardinals posted a terrific 7-3-0 record. The defense sparked by Steve Townsend, Bob Kneip, Brian Mack, Rod Scinto, and Scott Cort caused nothing but problems for opposing offenses. In a span of six games this awesome defense had 22 out of 24 shut-out quarters; while the offense led by Mike Hogan, Leroy Green, Brian Long, Lance Badger, and Mike Loretta kept the opposing defenses off balance. This fine Cardinal Newman team was led by a strong coaching staff which consisted of coaches Ed Lloyd, Dennis Crandall, Lynn Meiser, Frank St. Peter, Mike Keefer, and Ty Pforsich. "Congratulations" to the Varsity Football team on an outstanding season and a job well done in '81. "You did it as a team."

J.V. Football Getting It Together

The J.V. team this year got it together establishing a 7-3 record. They opened their season with their most intensily played game against Ukiah. This game being the first league game and against a very good team, they dominated the game offensively and defensively winning 27-0. Coach Watt and the team made it through a great football season. Thanks team for all your effort.

Chris Bertoli

Some years ago, a very large man lived. He walked many miles each day. Not large in physical size, he was large in human size. Helpful, loving, and caring, he was a man that seemed to care for anything and anybody. He would give anything to anybody who asked for it. He was colorful at times but could be uncolorful too. Most of the time he was colorful to show he was a man wise with age, making it seem as if he would live as long as he wanted to. This did not happen; one day the color was gone. No more walking those many miles or giving things to people; he was dead. The path he walks now is a long one that will not end for any reason. The one he walks now is as colorful and loving as he was. This person was my great grandfather, the one that started this entire family of mine. I never knew this man, but in some way I know who he was and what he was. I had a feeling of this.

OCTOBER

A father walked with his daughter through the park
Kicking leaves that had fallen on the wet ground.
She asked him why the clouds floated in the sky.
He looked at his watch and wondered how his wife's new dress
Could possibly be worth so much money.

The daughter smiles at her daddy with her brown eyes,
And thought how lucky she was to have the best daddy in the whole world.
As it began to drizzle lightly, he kept thinking about that damn weather man saying it would be "fair".
He pulled the collar of his jacket tighter around his neck and stared at the ground.
She turned her face up to the sky and began to sing a song
she learned at school last week.
The rain fell a little heavier
So he quickened his pace to the car.
"Is it raining because God's crying, Daddy?"
He remembered being locked out of his house
in the rain one day years ago and said,

She splashed water from the puddles in the parking lot. He grabbed her hand and shouted, "Hurry up, we're getting all wet."
As she waited for him to unlock the car door She turned and looked at the trees and clouds and wondered why God was crying.

"I think so, Honey."

I know there's a reason why I need to be alone, I need to find a silent place that I can call my own. I seem to get so weary from the battles in this life, And many times it seems that you're the only hope in sight When everything's dark and nothing seems right When there's nothing to win and there's no one to fight You're love is what sustains me Gives me hope and seems to save me I need you here throughout my day, to show me your love in so many ways.

The Ax is Falling

Unheard whispers a hidden note

They knew it was coming after screaming so loud

As the claws
launch their attack
and the eyes find faces
matching names
the skin
screams with the threat flying around as the dead bird dies

again?

Death cavorts down the hallway, as if displaying a wedding gown.

an old man prays to his Lord, as if he will be strung to the cross, the puttering heart seems to lose its rhythm, as if a musician suddenly goes deaf.

the heart stops ...

death slithers down the hallway, as if proclaiming his victim.

Jonathon Theodore Cranston

A sullen, rhythmic beat filled the room. Like an observant hawk the ancient clock perched on the mantle. No corner of the tiny basement apartment could escape its view, even in the growing darkness. And the man was no exception. Indeed, he was the focus, sitting quietly in his well-worn chair.

The man was Jonathon Theodore Cranston. His was a slight build and a wiry one. His balding head and rather undistinguished features were not what set him apart, not what made people notice him. But something did. It was that fire in his eyes, that resolution in his walk. Of late, this intensity had increased, so that even strangers shuddered when Jonathon passed them on the street, though they could not have said why. He was like an arrow on a bow, strung so tight that something was bound to snap. When? was the only question.

Presently Jonathon rose and began to pace, staring at the shabby rug. It was as though he put every ounce of his concentration into each step. Abruptly he stopped. He stood deathly still for several moments. It was obvious that something very powerful was stewing beneath the surface. This once ordinary man had become quite extraordinary with some determination, the origin of which was unknown to all but himself.

Then, with unmistakable resolve, Jonathon Theodore Cranston picked up an old, musty overcoat and left his dingy cellar-like room. Up the age-worn steps he went, emerging into the dusky street. People in high spirits were all about. But Jonathon did not stop. He walked on brusquely.

His pace soon conveyed him to another neighborhood. Compared to this, his own lower-class neighborhood looked like paradise. The people here were not in high spirits. They stood apathetically in doorways or alleys. Still, Jonathon walked on.

At last he reached his destination. It was an ancient apartment building. Jonathon did not hesitate, but bounded up the termite-ridden stairs to the first apartment at the top. Here he knocked. A big, surly-looking man opened the door, and without a word, Jonathon Theodore Cranston entered.

"What d'ya want now?" the surly man asked.

There was a pause. The man walked over to the only window, a pitiful, cracked thing. Then Jonathon said calmly, "You killed my brother."

The big man laughed, a hard, bitter sound. And, still gazing out onto the dark streets, not even bothering to face his accuser he said coldly, "Your brother wasn't worth the trouble. I didn't kill him."

"Yes," insisted Jonathon without raising his voice. "Yes, you killed my brother. And when you did you left me with only one thing — revenge."

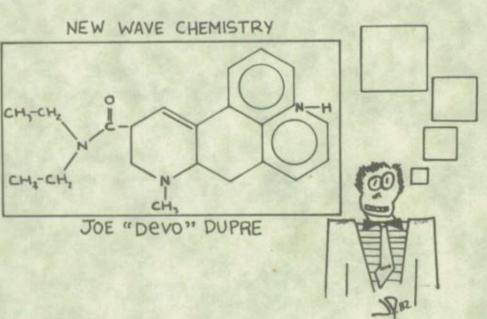

The big man turned away from the window with a look of amusement on his face. But this melted into terror when he saw the pistol the little, wiry man held. Jonathon fired two shots and it was all over. The big man lay dead on the floor.

Out in the street again it was as though nothing had happened. People looked up as the resolute figure of Jonathon Theodore Cranston walked past. But their eyes showed nothing of concern, nothing of curiosity — only indifference.

I've heard of country, I've heard of rock, I've heard of soul, and I've heard of Bach. But now there's a new thing, And its style is called punk. The punkers have short haircuts.

They dress all funny, It's a sight to see, I keep saying to myself, "That could never be me." The lyrics of this music are mostly a few lines: Lines sung over and over, sounding similar to whines. They have such names as the B-52's and sex pistols where they bounce around on stage like absolute imbeciles. I guess I find their music so obnoxious and dull I think I'll always stay, with good old Rock n' Roll. Russ Meyer

We sit, each with his own thoughts. Waiting for our heroes. Listen! Music softly pours from speakers, announcing their appearance. They're here! They leap on Stage like puppets on strings. "Jerking Back and Forth"; does that hurt? Enthralled, we move in Like children to a campfire.

The music takes you.

Are we not men?

Who is that man yonder with the hair of red? Oops! It is the principal, Mr. Carrot Head. He is a great man, I can honestly say, He has helped make this school what it is today. A meeting with him many parents are wishing But he's usually on a trip somewhere fishing. In his hand one always finds a coffee cup, Boy! He can really drink the stuff up! He is a caring person, I do not lie, The principal of Cardinal Newman High.

Through the door comes the arrogant teacher, He is quite short and lectures like a preacher. He is one we all know well, For of himself he loves to tell. Of course, his achievements are many, But telling of them the use isn't any. He tries so hard to be patient and fair, To the student who just doesn't care. I'm sure underneath he's a wonderful man, Even if he is his own greatest fan!

Here comes our football team, a bunch of studs Even though they like to go out and play in the mud. To win every game is their ultimate goal, And if they lose one, they're considered dull. Their coach, a stricter man there never was, He wants them to win, and not only because Of the glory he receives when the team is hot, But of the ridicule he gets when they're not. All in all, they're a pretty good bunch, But don't get in front of them when they're eating their lunch.

Over in the corner a bunch of ladies stand With aprons on they look so grand. We all admire these great cafeterial personnel Who five times a week go through hell. Trying to feed 800 and change a dollar, All the students do is scream and holler. These brave souls must everyday slave, To make just enough so there's little to save. Sometimes the results are pretty sad But finally to eat, everyone is glad. So hail to these women so brave and few Or else the lunch that is eaten would be made by you!

Now enter some of the students you'll find, Who to their homework and tests pay no mind. All they think about is sports and their Buds, These are the typical Newman studs. Their cars so very high are jacked And with clothes and garbage are packed. In their pockets combs are stuck So every 5 minutes hair can be tucked. They chew their tobacco like a cow chews a cud. This is the typical Newman stud!

Here comes a nice young man and quite a scholar. With hair cut short and shirt with a collar.

On his face no hair can be seen, This law enforced by the new school dean. His classes are tough, especially Physics and English, Between the two he cannot distinguish. At school he's very respectable to say the least, But once off campus he turns into a beast. When the final bell rings he jumps into his machine Which he thinks is the baddest and very mean. No homework for him, all books thrown away, He wants to take it easy and kick back everyday.

At football games he has fun to shout But only until the cops throw him out. At parties the senior gets even crazier And the next day he is much lazier. At the end of the year he obtains a disease, Not like a cold which makes him sneeze, But one that affects his inner mind And makes him numb and very unkind. He has to get out, he just can't wait, To get his diploma and graduate.

Over by the coaches one man stands out, It's our equipment manager, without a doubt. You won't find him squabbling over the latest dress He's an individualist, but never a mess. His pants are polyester, red and yellow He always get a smile, a jolly good fellow. He sometimes goes to work early, dedicated to the

He went to Fort Worth last summer, all expenses paid.

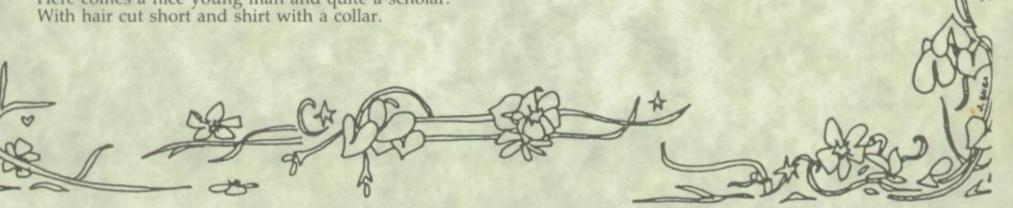

The equipment he issues is in major demand. "See me in the morning," the resulting command. Ask him for some tape and with a mustache quiver, He'll slam his door, sigh, "Why me?", and then begin to shiver.

When someone is injured he's always on the scene, Pushing people back, but never being mean. With a stretcher in hand, onto the field he'll dance, Running very quickly, but holding up his pants. All the spanish athletes have taught him to say

He's Charles W. Dahl, or just plain Tuna.

It is now time to bring this story to conclusion, Without a doubt you must be in confusion. From hearing about the people of this school You might take each one to be a fool. But mark my word, this is not true, The same as these no others can do. Goodbye for now you women and males, For this is the end of The Cardinalbury Tales.

The Cardinalburg

When in October the cold rain falls, And seeps through the roofs and drops in the halls Of the school on the road called Ursuline, Then it is time for assemblies again. The school is named for a scholar of old, A man of godliness, so I am told, A writer of skill matched by very few men, Such was the Cardinal, John Henry Newman. On this one Friday afternoon After a lunch that ended too soon, Gathered the students and the faculty In the gym for an assembly. Counselors and students, priests and nuns, Equipment managers and custodians, Freshmen, juniors, and sophomores, Followed by seniors through the gym doors. Into the bleachers they noisily file, Talking and laughing all the while. 'Fore the assembly begins, it's worth a minute To describe the gym and the people in it. Read on and I'm sure that you'll agree, A stranger group you'll not soon see.

First enters the freshmen, immature and short. And of the very eager and ambitious sort. With highwater pants and a voice so high, He sounds like a mouse, I do not lie. He tries so hard to be accepted, But in the end is always rejected. He wears glasses and looks absurd And is called by seniors a "little nerd". He thinks he's cool and acts very calmly, But every day he goes home wanting his mommy. He wants to look at and talk to the girls, And when he does he chokes and unfurls. His books are stacked high up to his chin So he won't be late when class begins. His hand is first to shoot into the air, But when called upon the answer is not there. When break time comes he runs in an excited way To get his doughnut and milk every day. His life is spent with caution and hesitation For he knows that his time will come — initiation. And behind him comes a girl quite young. Looking for boys and drooling at the tongue. This fine freshman appeared to be of noble class, Though, to her teachers, she was known to sass. Her hair was of a medium brown. She put it up when she went to town. She had no hobbies to keep her busy, Except that of making everyone dizzy. When it came to money, this freshman was bold, She loved rainbows only for their pots of gold.

And against the wall a man was to be seen,
From the look on his face he must be quite keen.
This teacher appeared mild-mannered enough,
Truth be told, he knew his stuff.
An honest and reasonable man was he,
Patient and caring to a very high degree.

He spoke with a gently, soothing voice,
And carried himself calmly by choice.
Noise was not his favorite thing,
His very presence seemed relaxing.
He believed strongly in things he thought right,
Able to back them up because of his might.
Not all that tall or heavy set,
He still was the strongest I'd ever met.

In come the sophomores, all humble and sweet,
Their hair nicely combed and clothes all so neat.
They are called rowdy, though you may not hear it,
But at the rallies they certainly show their spirit.
By earning the stick each month, I'd say,
No other class can take it away.
The guys try to be studs and charmers
To all the girls wearing leg warmers,
But they pay no attention to these little weiners
For they'd rather go out with seniors.

All are silenced as in they walk,
Another teacher and the dean, my, how they stalk!
There stood the teacher, brave and tall,
About English and literature he must have known all.
Immaculately dressed, his hair neatly pressed,
Not-a-one in the room considered him a pest.
However, one minor feature did catch my eye,
Apparently, he was wearing only half a tie.
But for this defect, he was a very jolly fellow,
With a shirt of pink and pants of bright yellow.
Had you searched far and wide, over land and sea,
You would never find one who was quite like he.
Well versed in English, a good coach of soccer,
And according to rumor, an active punk rocker.

And then there is another, just as wise as he,
The dean is his name, the school his responsibility
Quiet by nature, his face showed no wrath,
But woe to the students who dared cross his path.
He made sure that they spend their very last dollars,
Buying button-up shirts with button-down collars.
He was patient with all, never was mean,
Unless some young hoodlum was caught with blue jeans.

The accused would fall on his knees full of repentance,

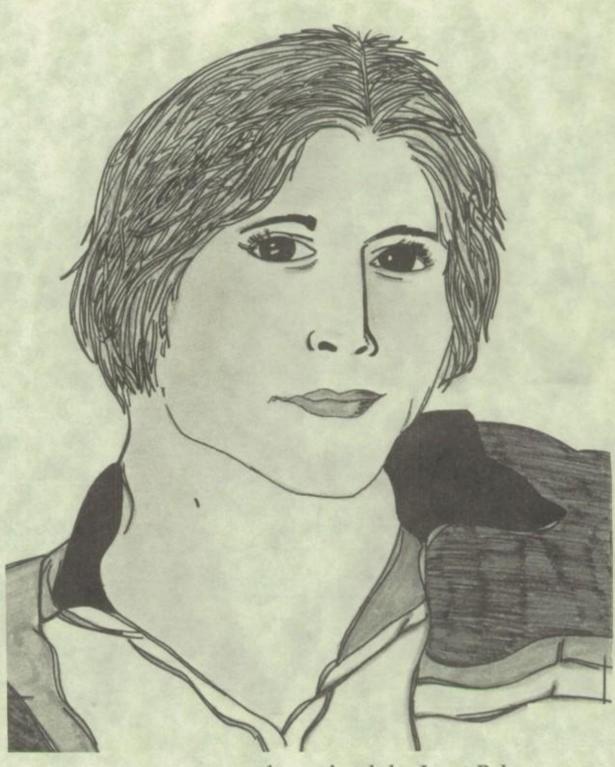

But the dean would pay him no heed, and calmly pronounce sentence.

Ah, yes, here come the juniors thinking they're great, They want to be seniors, they just can't wait. But they must be calm, just one more year, Then they can experience the senior good cheer They now have their license and can drive to school, To ride with them one must be a fool! For in the parking lot there are accidents galore, They can't keep the pedal away from the floor. Well, give them time, a year and a day And then you'll see that the juniors are O.K.

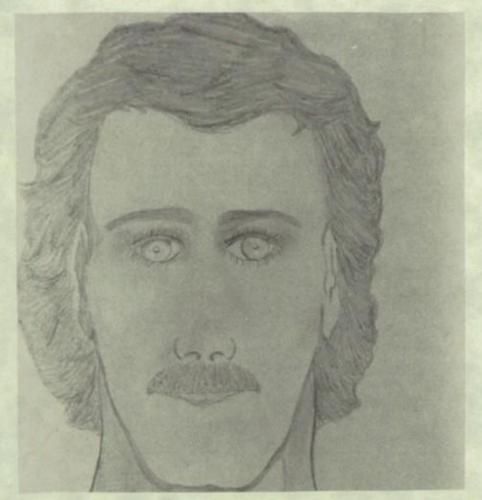

"THE JOCK"

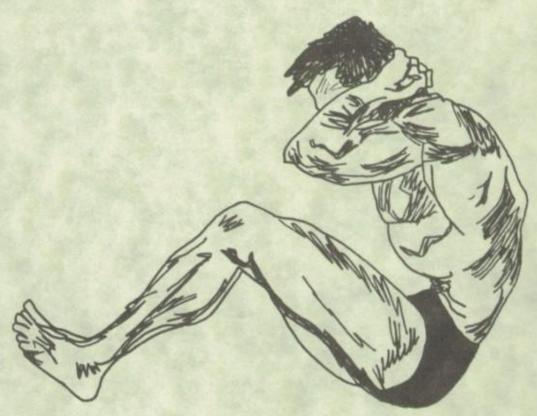

On by he struts, Never falling in ruts, He's one tough dude, And just a lil' bit rude. He pumps those weights Overloaded with dates, In school he just gets by, It's said he doesn't cry. Football, Basketball, Track, Scholarships piled in a stack. On he goes to USB, And has never even made a C. Injured his knee in a game Now the Doc says he's lame Out of sports he's forced to quit Now for work he shovels * The moral of the story appears: To be successful, study for years Sports aren't the only thing Sure it's fun, but only for a fling It's nice to have something To fall back on, When your athletic days Are gone.

FRESHMAN LUNCH

My first lunch period in high school, and I'm so nervous. Oh, here come my friends now. They're running towards me with their socks falling, arms waving, purses flying, and papers scattering. They come to a halt and tell me that Fred Nickers just said 'hi' to Charlene!! My God! I don't believe it! We finally gather our thoughts, and ten of us walk to the bathroom.

Jan is asking Mary if she has hairspray, Ann wants to borrow some perfume, from Kim, and Sarah is asking Julie to move so she can stand on the toilet seat to see if she looks perfect! After fifteen minutes all of us walk out with our discussion of Rick Springfield, and what a babe he is. As we near the cafeteria, an army of freshmen are coming on. We quickly converse with each other to see if we know any. Thank god Betty knows one of them. We approach each other looking in different directions. Betty approaches Jim. Both armies stop. Betty says 'hi', and so does Jim. We keep walking like it was nothing, but really we can't wait for Betty to tell us about the whole experience!

We eat our lunch in a corner table and talk about the football game which is in two weeks. We make a plan to meet in front of the ticket booth and walk in together. After the game we all agree to go to Swenson's, and try to "pick-up a guy." (I got that phrase from a senior)

Having only ten more minutes until the end of lunch we go to our lockers and then to class. We stand perfectly, waiting for the teacher to come. The teacher told us to read the school manual and follow the rules. How could anyone try to break the rules of the school?

On my way home, thinking of questions to ask a senior of what to do in high school. I could only come up with four:

How many times should I wash my hair?

2. How many buttons should I unbutton on my shirt — 0,1,2,?

3. Can I say "hi" to seniors or is that against the

4. Should I buy a pair of cherokee sandals with a pair of leg warmers over my pants?

Gosh, I wonder if I'll ever be like the seniors. They are so mature and so perfect! They talk to boys that they hardly even know. (What courage!!)

But next year they will be starting all over again. I'll be a super sophomore, while they will only be froggy freshmen!!

Calvin Klein, Chemin de fer and Vanderbilt for Murjani; All these things the people wear Is it only for popularity?

OP Shorts and rubber thongs, Hawaiian prints and more, Football jerseys, cherokees The sophomores know the score.

Pink leg warmers, worn all wrong (they should be tucked into boots)
Purple Shoelaces 'round their heads
Quick! Get the gun and shoot;

Mini Skirts worn above the knee,
Walking shorts with "siders"
Argyle socks and, dearie me!
One looks the same as the other!

THE DANCER

Lightly She floats like the mist in the morning sun strong yet frail she is a bird that longs to soar and she is a painter winding in her arms and legs magical colours creating a picture all her own. She turns and reaches for a star with her tiny hand. Then the music stops - she is gone, as silently as she appeared. But turn on a melody slow and sweet play her a lovesong, and the dancer will always show through for she is beauty and grace and everything that is Fragile and Majestic inside all of us.

Oh day, long awaited come. Oh mighty north wind blow, Push time until everything is soaring Time make days, weeks, and months, Race towards me Make the hours disappear at a wink, Then pause ... on that day in June. When proud smiles fill happy faces, Classmates share an experience That took twelve years to make. Hours of hard study, Ending up as cramming before an exam. Trying to please the teachers, Learning Little by little What the world is all about. Building dreams for the future, That grow closer everyday. Until ... we see them right outside the door. And finally are able to walk through and grab them And begin to make them come true.

Then time, After this pause, Return again to your steady pace.

Who am I? Am I a painter or a writer? An activist, A Tragedy, A Dreamer who wishes on things faraway? woman and child in one -"Baby your shoelace is undone" ... And yet there are Cinderella times — Daddy's little girl is growing up ...
"my She's gotten tall" ...
isn't there a hidden sparkle behind that smeared smile? So strong So scared. Where to turn Where to go -Keep me safe "Keep her good" Keep me warm in hard times. Will I find that magic secret? cross that gilded line? "Comb your hair, honey." A little laugh, A tiny sigh -Adulthood So close Yet still faraway

A Happening

He sits down at his desk with a pencil and pulls out a piece of paper. After carefully sketching a deer he goes to the closet and takes out his rifle. As he turns around, the deer leaps from the page and heads for the door. The man cocks his rifle, aims and shoots the deer, which crumbles to the ground. While he returns his rifle to the closet, the deer floats back to the paper as it falls to the trash can.

JUST A PAINTING

It's Just a painting
But I can Hear it
And I can Feel it too.

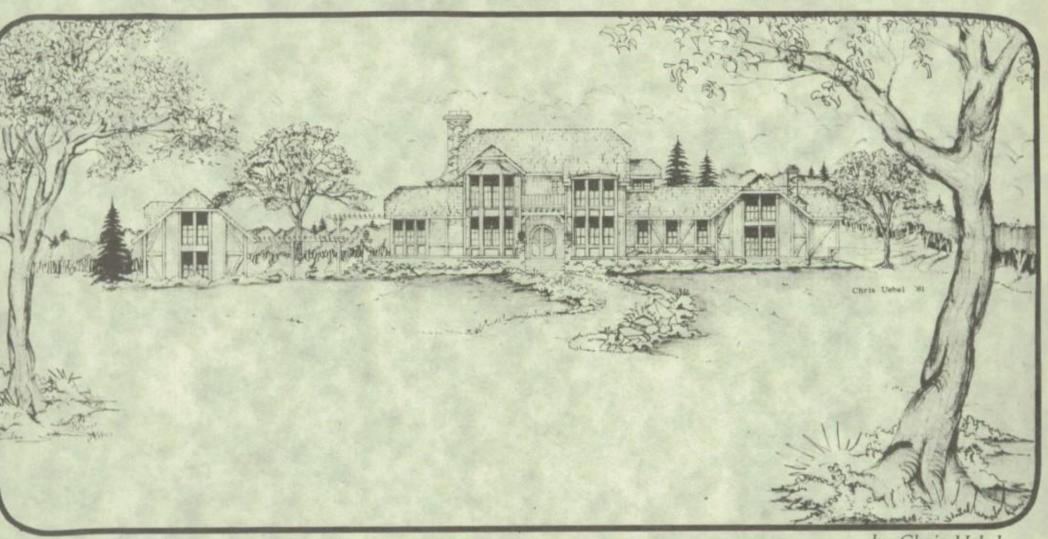

I can Hear those gulls
Their rude, demanding squawks
Those fat scavenger sea gulls.

And the blat of the fog horn
It's a distant, muffled sound
But I can Hear it just the same
Look at the misty fog rolling in
And Feel its damp chillness
I'm shivering again.

That little barnacled boat It seems so drab and lonely Makes me feel a little sad.

But after all It's Just a painting . . .

ME, MYSELF, OR I? Sometimes I wonder exactly what am I? I ponder the question who is the real me? With awed amazement I try and see inside myself maybe to discover what wants to be hidden?! Is there some tangible creature that tells a tale if only to spur my anger at my lack of knowledge? Is a sort of parachute there beside me to soften the blow of when I discover the real me?

The John Fitzgerald Gymnasium

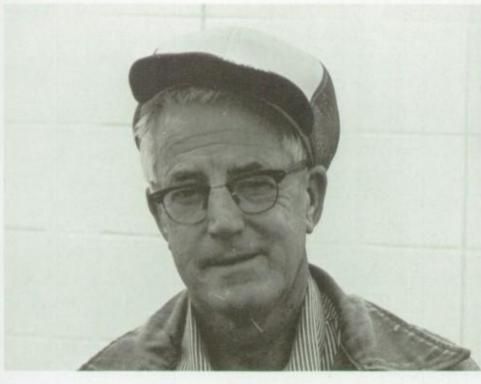

After 17 years of dedication to the school, varsity basketball coach John Fitzgerald was forced to retire because of his health. To commemorate his great service to school and community, CN named the gym in his honor. He left CN the legacy of having won 70% of his games. The new coach, Tom Bonfigli, hopes the traditions Fitzgerald began and his method of coaching will continue in the future. Bonfigli, who played for Fitzgerald in 69-70-71 said, "Coach Fitzgerald not only taught us about basketball, but a lot about life in general. He is the best Christian I know, and had a greater respect for his players than anyone I've seen in the coaching profession." Senior Mike Hogan, who played for the coach last year, said "The easiest word to describe him would be 'legend.' He has unlimited knowledge of the game, and shares it with all his players. As a spiritual guide, he was the best. He gives you confidence in yourself, and makes you thankful you have legs to run with and arms to shoot the ball with." We thank him for all he did, and wish him luck and happiness.

Film Class catches John August in the act

Maureen Reagan, the President's daughter, who's running for U.S. Senate, talked to us.

Ms. Reagan energetically initiated our fantastic sound system.

The Secret Service men made everyone feel like something big was happening.

Joan Baez passed up the podium and mike to sit with us on the floor.

"I'd never even seen Joan Baez before. She's so cool I can't believe it. Here she is, someone who played at Woodstock with Jimi Hendrix, The Who, Bob Dylan, and knew the Beatles, yet she talked to us like a real person. She didn't want anyone to know she was on our campus, but when someone found out, she agreed to talk to whoever wanted to go up and rap. She played a few songs off her new album (unreleased as yet), "Children of the '80s", but most of the time was spent talking about war, life, politics, and comparisons of the '70s and the '80s. I'd like to thank Joan Baez for bringing her love to Newman/Ursuline."

Gifts

I have an opportunity To build a loving community You and I — we've shared some good, We've shared some bad, A great experience we both have had. I must say love has touched me here It's in all of you, crystal clear. The chapel was my favorite place Where we were gifted by Gods loving grace. Of all the gifts that I receive There's a most special one, I believe, It's hard for me to come out and say it Yet all of you easily portray it All of you have been my friend Loving, sharing until the end I'm not sure how to but I guess I'll start By saying all of you have touched my heart You've all loved me and I've loved you What we've shared will always be true. by Kevin O'Malley

Blood Drive Giving Flowed From the Heart

Blood is good for every-body.

CANS, CANS, CANS!

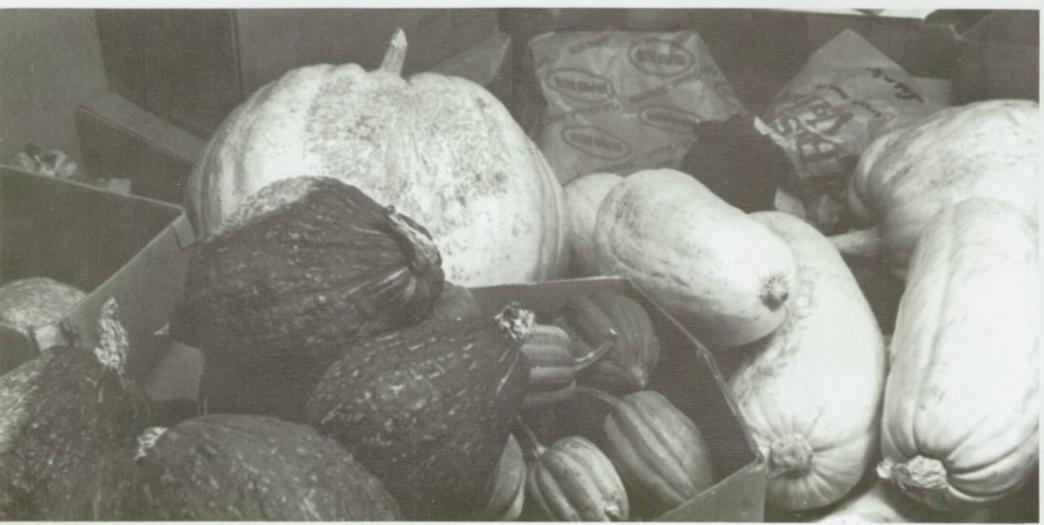

Did anyone bring a can-opener?

Those are pretty funny-looking cans!

Each year our schools get together and bring in canned foods for the needy people in Santa Rosa and vicinity. We all work really hard in getting hundreds of cans. The Sisters and anyone who will, help distribute them to the hungry families in our towns. Keep up the good work!

A Day For Missions

This year we brought back a tradition that we hadn't fufilled in the last couple years. Our school set aside one day to raise money for the missions. We had a carnival with games and food everywhere. All this money went to the missions. We even elected Mission Day Queens. These girls were chosen because of the way they help out the community; Senior Jenny Shea, Junior Amy Lowe, Sophomore Tina Indinoli and Freshman Anita Moyle.

Nuclear Armament Awareness Day January 28, 1982

Speakers, Ocean Breeze, "The Last Epidemic", a liturgy, and classmates served as sources to raise awareness on our campus about Nuclear Armaments. January 28 was a complete school day devoted to discussing the Arms Race, the United States "defense" system, and our part as caring citizens in this crucial issue.

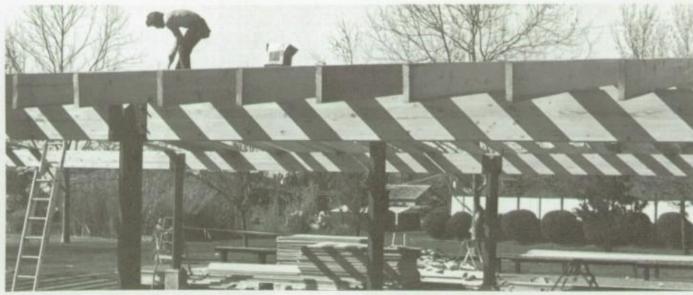

Some people are strangely affected by discussing the Nuclear issue.

All You Need Is Love

There's nothing you can do that can't be done,
Nothing you can sing that can't be sung.
Nothing you can say but you can learn how to play the game
It's easy

All you need is love.

There's nothing you can make that can't be

No one you can save that can't be saved. Nothing you can do but you can learn how to be you in time.

It's easy

All you need is love.

There's nothing you can know that isn't known, Nothing you can see that isn't shown. Nowhere you can be that isn't where you're meant to be

It's easy,

All you need is love
